Order of AHEPA
District Governor

Dear Brothers,

The first half of my term was highlighted by three tremendous events. First, a successful 2nd Annual Hellenic History Trophy Tournament thanks to the great effort by our HHT Chairman PDG Nicholas Nikas. Secondly, we hosted a very impressive Northeast Regional AHEPA Biennial Banquet honoring a number of distinguished recipients including our very own Socrates H. Mihalakos, of Waterbury, CT and Dr. John Eleftheriades, New Haven, CT. Finally, we exceeded all expectations in membership. Our Yankee District 7 had impressive growth in membership in 2010, growing from 765 to 822 members, which is the largest level in the last 20 years. Nationally, we ranked first in Membership Retention at 97.3% based on membership dues sent to Headquarters. We are second in the Nation in percentage of growth through 2010 and our District was the only District in the Country to grow by almost 30%. Membership is the key to the success of our organization.

I was able to make Chapter visitations to: Norwich, New Britain, Norwalk, Hartford, Danbury, Meriden, Waterbury, Bridgeport, Stamford, Providence, and New Haven in the first half and look forward to completing and repeating the rounds of our District #7 Chapters. The visitations have been a great learning and sharing experience. Also, it was a pleasure and honor to initiate new members and swear in new officers. The quality of our Ahepans in District 7 is wide spread, and the enthusiasm is contagious.

Thank you for your efforts in growing our District membership!! Thank you for supporting the District events!

We need to continue our efforts of promoting Hellenism through education, philanthropy and civic responsibility. Also, we need to continue to grow our membership through a concerted effort of Recruiting, Reinstating and Retaining (RRR), with a common goal to grow the District 7 membership to exceed 850 in 2011.

The District #7 Lodge and Brothers from District #5 and #6 are planning on marching in the Greek Independence Parade in New York City on Sunday, March 27th. For those interested in joining us in the march, please contact Brother Manolis Sfinarolakis (203-232-2462) for information.

AHEPA Chapter #62 Bridgeport, CT

The Chapter held its Annual Chicken Luncheon on January 16th. We thank everybody who supported our annual Scholarship Fundraiser. At the luncheon, we were also proud to present the church with a donation of $500 from the proceeds, which were raised from the AHEPA Taverna Night event. The Annual Chicken Lunch will return to a November Schedule. The event was rescheduled to January due to several members participating in the Holy Land trip in November.

We attended "A Night at the Museum" at the Bellarmine Museum of Art at Fairfield University. Our chapter with the Daughters arranged this event which featured the museum exhibit "Gifts from Athens", which included plaster casts of sculptures from the Parthenon. We had a cocktail reception which followed the tour. We were honored to have the President of Fairfield University, Rev. Jeffrey von Arx join us. He expressed his appreciation to AHEPA and the Daughters for supporting the museum exhibit. The chapter is planning on expanding its sponsorship of cultural events. We will soon be working with the Hellenic Studies Program at Yale University. We also attended a Bridgeport Hockey Game in February.

Overview of the Problems Faced by the Ecumenical Patriarchate

By Nikiforos Mathews

Restrictions on the Election of the Ecumenical Patriarch

In 1923 and 1970, the Governor of Istanbul issued decrees imposing restrictions on the election of the Ecumenical Patriarch, and the Hierarchs (Metropolitans and Archbishops) who elect him, requiring that each of them be Turkish citizens. However, the Canons of the Orthodox Church state that the Ecumenical Patriarch is to be elected from the entire pool of Hierarchs of the Ecumenical Patriarchate, without regard to jurisdiction or citizenship. Currently there are few Hierarchs in Turkey with Turkish citizenship, effectively severely limiting the candidates for election. Recently, Turkish authorities have allowed, on a case-by-case basis, non-Turkish Hierarchs to apply for Turkish citizenship. While this may serve as a welcome stop-gap measure, it is not a solution, as it fails to eliminate the illegal and meddlesome restrictions arbitrarily imposed by the Turkish State.

Non-Recognition of "Ecumenical" Status of Patriarch and Patriarchate

The Turkish State continues not to recognize the "Ecumenical" title and status of the Ecumenical Patriarch and Ecumenical Patriarchate. This title was given to the Ecumenical Patriarch of Constantinople by the undivided Christian Church in the 6th century, and is purely an ecclesiastical title. The mission and jurisdiction of the Ecumenical Patriarchate has always been—and always will be—purely spiritual. Unfortunately, this title has been the source of much debate by the Turkish State, even though it is recognized and used by the rest of the world. The Orthodox faithful under the immediate jurisdiction of the Ecumenical Patriarchate truly encircle the globe and the vast majority reside outside of Turkey. The Ecumenical Patriarchate is the First Church of the Orthodox Church worldwide, responsible for coordinating the Pan-Orthodox affairs of the Orthodox Church. It is the spiritual center of 300 million Orthodox Christians world-wide. Contrary to his true role, his ecclesiastical entitlement and his global recognition as an "Ecumenical" leader, Turkish authorities continue to insist that the Ecumenical Patriarch is merely the leader of the small Greek Orthodox minority in Turkey. Significantly, in March 2010, the Venice Commission concluded that any interference with the right of the Ecumenical Patriarchate to use the ecclesiastical title "Ecumenical" would constitute a violation of the autonomy of the Orthodox Church under Article 9 of the European Convention on Human Rights.

Re-Opening of the Theological School of Halki

This Theological School of Halki was illegally closed in 1971 by a secret decision that prohibited private higher religious education.

The operation of this minority school, which operated as a three-year high school followed by a four-year theological seminary, is protected by the provisions of the Treaty of Lausanne of 1923. Current Ecumenical Patriarch Bartholomew I, the entirety of the clergy of the Holy Synod, many noted clerics in Greece and abroad, and a number of university professors are graduates or students of the school of Halki. Since its closure, the Ecumenical Patriarchate has been compelled to send the young men from its community desiring to enter the priesthood or study theology abroad, usually to one of the theological schools in Greece. In many instances, they do not return to Turkey after completing their studies. Since the closure of the school, the Ecumenical Patriarchate has also had difficulties in staffing the Ecumenical Patriarchate to carry out its many administrative responsibilities and to fill positions to carry out its global mission. As recently as last year, State Minister Bulent Arinc was quoted in the newspaper Hurriyet: "I personally would very much like to see the seminary reopen. We need to permit this. We must agree to the rightful requests, the basic rights of those of different faiths, because we are not just the government of Muslims." However, despite many promises made by the Turkish Government over the past few years that the school would reopen, there has been no tangible progress towards this end. In fact, Turkish authorities often attempt to tie the issue to political disagreements with Greece, including the construction of a mosque in Athens. The re-opening of this school is absolutely critical for the training of Orthodox clergy and for the future of the Ecumenical Patriarchate.

Non-Legal Status of the Ecumenical Patriarchate

The Ecumenical Patriarchate has not had any legal identity, or personality, in Turkey. This is particularly difficult to comprehend because the institution is 1700 years old. In fact, the Treaty of Lausanne established and defined the legal position and rights of the minorities in Turkey. This is an internationally binding agreement, signed by Turkey, and its articles cannot be altered or interfered with unilaterally by the Turkish State. Moreover, the EU-Turkey 2003 Accession Partnership instructs Turkey to conform to European standards with respect to religious freedom and the protection of minorities. The Turkish State continues to violate the Lausanne Treaty by not legally recognizing the Ecumenical Patriarchate and, as it relates to the Ecumenical Patriarchate, it has made little progress towards the EU-Turkey 2003 Accession Partnership. Not having a legal identity in Turkey is a major source of problems for the Ecumenical Patriarchate, as it has not enjoyed the requisite standing to restore and protect its properties and conduct its business affairs. In March 2010, the Venice Commission of the Council of Europe concluded that the fundamental right to freedom of religion, as protected by Article 9, read in conjunction with Article 11, of the European Convention on Human Rights, includes the possibility for religious communities to obtain legal personality.

Confiscation of the Orphanage on Büyükada

In 2005, Turkish authorities attempted to seize an Orphanage on the island of Büyükada that had been registered to the Ecumenical Patriarchate since 1902. The Ecumenical Patriarchate appealed to the European Court of Human Rights in Strasbourg, France, on April 9, 2005 regarding the ownership of the building. Nevertheless, while this case proceeded, on March 20, 2006, the name of the Ecumenical Patriarchate was erased as the owner of the Orphanage and replaced with the name of the Foundation of the building. However, this Foundation had been seized by the Turkish authorities in 1997. Therefore, this building, which is the largest wooden structure in Europe and has tremendous historical value, became owned by the Turkish State. On July 8, 2008, the Court vindicated the Ecumenical Patriarchate in connection with its properties on Büyükada with a unanimous 7-0 verdict, including the vote of the Turkish judge. The Court effectively held that the Turkish State was not entitled to deprive the owner of its property, the Ecumenical Patriarchate, without providing appropriate compensation. Moreover, on June 15, 2010, Turkey was ordered by the court to re-register the Orphanage in the Ecumenical Patriarchate's name. Turkey complied with this order on November 29, 2010. This step may have a profound impact on the rights of the Ecumenical Patriarchate as it suggests the de facto recognition of its existence as a legal entity.

Work Permits for Foreigners

Foreigners who work at the Ecumenical Patriarchate are not able to obtain work permits to work in Turkey at the Ecumenical Patriarchate. These individuals must leave the country every three months to renew their tourist visas. This makes bringing individuals from abroad to work at the Ecumenical Patriarchate very difficult and also greatly disrupts the operation and productivity of the Ecumenical Patriarchate. In one case, when a clergyman from France working at the Ecumenical Patriarchate applied for a work permit he was deported and banned from Turkey within two days. This demonstrates that at any moment the Turkish authorities can decide to order foreigners to leave the country, immediately halting the operation of the Ecumenical Patriarchate.

Brother Nik is a member of the Stamford Chapter #99. He is available to speak to any Chapter or Church community.
